Minas is a Greek designer who has a keen eye for detail and an innovative way of expressing it. He always knew exactly what he wanted to achieve and trained as a goldsmith from the age of 15.

Minas established himself in New York City as a freelance designer. There he flourished as part of the city's thriving art community. Before long his creations were must have pieces for a greater audience and they quickly caught the eye of collectors as well. He soon established his trademark style, creating pieces exclusively from gold and silver.

In 1980 Minas moved his studio back to Athens to begin a new limited collection of personally signed pieces, a tradition he still holds to this day. He then expanded his horizons to architectural and industrial design, and constructed an extraordinary home on the Greek Island of Mykonos, marrying Cycladic tradition with modern ideas.

Today, through the medium of wood, stainless steel, carbon fiber and marble, his creativity and ingenuity transform jewellery, furniture and everyday objects to must have items.
